

ECM Motor Technology Service Training Class

Sponsored by ILLCO and Regal Beloit / Genteq / Morrill ECM Motors

The biggest advantage of this course is that it comes directly from the manufacturer of ECM motors that are currently being used in almost all residential and commercial Refrigeration and HVAC systems including furnaces, air handlers, geothermal units and package systems.

The class will

- Explain ECM efficiency
- Identify the basics of ECM technology
- Installation requirements of ECM driven systems
- How Variable Speed technology benefits HVAC systems
- How to diagnose and replace variable speed motors
- How to diagnose and solve airflow issues
- Introduction to new ECM technologies

Presented by Christopher Mohalley
Genteq Certified Master ECM Trainer
